Laura Herring : London's Best Brunches: Beyond the Full English before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised London's Best Brunches: Beyond the Full English:

Want to know the best place near you for avocado on toast or some freshly baked granola? Or perhaps a fry-up and a bottomless jug of Bloody Mary is more in order...Brunch is fast becoming the meal of the day and here is our guide to London's 50 best spots to grab the papers and settle in for a leisurely morning. Whether it's a relaxed affair or more of a special occasion, there is a venue near you to fulfil every brunchtime need. From coffee and eggs in an art gallery (No67) to a toastie by the canal (Towpath cafe), waffles with views over London (Duck and Waffle), or a fry-up after a stroll in the park (The Pavilion Cafe), we've eaten, drunk, reordered and reviewed so that you can perfectly satisfy those mid-morning munchies.
