London is huge, sprawling, and chaotic, so before you set out on a shopping spree we recommend you arm yourself with this handy guide to make sure you never get lost and don't miss out on anything - from the oldest traditional establishments to the most avant-garde boutiques. And because we want you and your purchases to stay nice and dry, we've kindly included the address of a legendary umbrella maker! Highlights of this book include descriptions of: For

"today's grooming needs," the classic barbershop perfumer Geo F. Trumper; opened in 1882, James Purdey Sons which exquisitely crafted guns hunting clothes; leading English fashion designer Stella McCartney's shop; furniture shop owned by Paul Smith, who reupholsters vintage pieces with his own fabric; putting HM to shame, the Topshop flagship store; all-natural, hand-crafted cheese and yoghurts from Neal's Yard Dairy; and, legendary umbrella makers James Smith Sons, the perfect place to pick up a walking stick as a souvenir. Special features of this book: exclusive hand-illustrated cover; exclusive hand-illustrated map for each area; information such as opening hours, history, and signature dishes; hand-illustrated postcard; and, softcover with a sturdy PVC jacket.
