Anton Powell : Londonwalks (Henry Holt Walks Series) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Londonwalks (Henry Holt Walks Series):

This is an absolutely WONDERFUL book to take to LondonBy A CustomerSelf-directed (and very explicit in terms of getting you around) this book is a wonderful find. If I want to re-think all the great times my friend and I had trekking through districts/neighborhoods, I don't go look at my photos... I grab this book. The gentleman who wrote it (at the time we visited) also led guided tours of the areas described in the book ..20 pounds! Do it yourself for the price of the book. Funny, informative, and definitely worth the bucks.We also bought the New York Walks (Manhattan) and found it equally informative, although written by a bunch of people from the NY "Y". Hester Street, Lower East Side, Upper East Side, etc., etc. GREAT.2 of 3 people found the following review helpful. A unique and highly effective approach to touring London!By A CustomerThe huge and bustling metropolis of London does not reveal itself to the casual visitor. To discover its hidden wonders, you must investigate streets and alleyways on foot. Now with the LONDONWALKS audio guide, visitors to London can put on earphones and slip a LONDONWALKS tape into their portable cassette recorder and start walking, while they listen to the history, scandal, and intrigue of one of the most magnificent cities of Europe. Each of the four audio walking tours in this two-cassette package takes about two hours, or as long as a morning or aternoon. They are narrated by the English actress Jean Marsh.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. If you can't jet off to London for the weekend....By A CustomerA wonderful way to relax over a rainy weekend. If you've been to London, it will take you back. If you haven't, the tape will prepare you for when you do go. Powell livens up the tour with interesting, amusing, and startling facts and anecdotes. The contemporary and historical information, the accents, the readers, the mood - all make for a quick trip to the U.K. in one little box. Very much enjoyed it.

Put your earphones on and let the Sound Travel Audio Guides do the talking, while you do the walking, through some of the most historic and enchanting cities in Europe.

From Library Journal As walking guides, these tapes offer a nicely organized, historically rich look at places outside the established tourist haunts. Meant to be used in portable players with headphones, the tapes offer four tours that would last approximately two hours each and cover charming neighborhoods, historic buildings, and unusual shopping opportunities. Directions for when to stop and restart the tapes are easily followed. Jean Marsh speaks clearly and is readily understood. The concise maps are clear, although the tiny print on the Chelsea-Latin Quarter map makes reading rather difficult. Tapes like these will never entirely replace good-quality travel guides and books, but their popularity as rentals in museums prove that many people enjoy and appreciate this form of self-paced guide. Recommended for those wanting to explore London's less touristy environs. Carolyn Alexander, Brigadoon Lib., Salinas, Copyright 1998 Reed Business Information, Inc. From the Publisher The Londonwalks Audio Guide is narrated by Jean Marsh. Long time star of London's West End, Jean Marsh was introduced to American audiences as Rose in Upstairs/Downstairs. She has appeared in Who's Life Is It Anyway on Broadway and numerous American films. Ms. Marsh is the author with Eileen Atkins of Upstairs/Downstairs and the same pair has written House Of Elliot, a BBC series on AE. From the Back Cover London, a huge and bustling metropolis does not reveal itself to the casual visitor. To discover its hidden wonders, you must investigate its streets and squares on foot. Now with The Londonwalks Audio Guide, you can put on your earphones, keep your eyes on the historic buildings, colorful shops and hidden courtyards, while you listen to the history, scandal and architectural curiosity of one of the most magnificent cities of Europe. Each of these four intimate walking tours can take as little as two hours or as long as a morning or afternoon, depending on whether you stop at shops, museums, pubs or resting places which are pointed out along the way. You can also listen to the tapes before you leave to help you plan your day in London and they will be an enjoyable reminder for you when you return.
