From Bekado (The Netherlands) : Madurodam (English, German, French, Italian) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Madurodam (English, German, French, Italian):

Madurodam is a miniature city between Scheveningen and The Hague, Netherlands. This major Dutch tourist attraction was built in 1952 and has been visited by tens of millions of visitors since then. The miniature city of Madurodam was named after George Maduro, a student from Curaçao who died at Dachau concentration camp in 1945. Mr. Maduro's parents donated the money to start the Madurodam project. Madurodam is a historically justified reproduction of an average Dutch town with surroundings to a scale of 1:25. At night, the 45,000+ little lamps light up the little town. Illuminated trains traverse the landscape, the lighthouse casts its rotating beam in all directions and the illuminated news reader shows you the latest news. This book features 63 color photos and text in four languages to show explain the magic of MADURODAM. This book measures approximately 6" x 8.5" and is thin enough to travel along on a trip without being bulky.
