for a trip to Mallorca, I borrowed a German map from a neighbor. It included topographical detail, hiking paths, and residential clusters; so I expected the same from my Globetrotter map. Alas, all those important details were missing. It looks good, however, for driving, and has a good overview of cities and towns, with detailed street maps. It also shows beaches in yellow, while the German map only named them. So, I'm taking both maps!¹⁰ of 4 people found the following review helpful.
